The supper dance at the Country Club, Friday evening, while delightful in every way was rather astonishing in that the "old time" dances were danced. The fox trot was quite the favorite number, while only two or three waltzes found place on the dance program. In the east comes word that the dance of the hour is the old fashioned waltz with the two step as a real rival, in popularity. There is a great vogue for the classical dances, which give promise of coming into prominence here later in the season.

The tango, fox trot and other intricate and not always artistic steps are not being done at any smart eastern affairs.

An affair that will be distinctive in its arrangements is the Halloween party planned by St. Winifred's Guild for Tuesday evening. The Parish House on North Second Avenue will be transformed into a veritable "pale" with concessions suggestive of the season. There will be guides to safely conduct the crowds through the zone, their first step being on the banks of the Styx. The hair of the black cat will be visited and the march of the dead will be viewed by the morbid who will continue their journey through Hades on to the haunts of the White Faces. The Giraffe Paraglider will be raided and an investigation will be made of the Devil's Coffee Pot. Xanthippe, the crystal gazer will throw light on various mysteries and finally the sensation seekers will be given opportunity to secure a photo of their fate. Prominent society mails and matrons are taking a great interest in the event and will be largely represented at the Halloween festival.

CLUB NOTES

Official Organ State Federation of Clubs

Are you an advocate of gymnastics and dancing classes in connection with Women's Clubs? This question will be asked frequently within the next few weeks and if sufficient interest be manifested, classes will be formed in the different organizations. The Republican, forwarding the movement will devote space in this column every Sunday where club women may express their views on the subject.

Mrs. John Bennett, Jr., president of the Woman's club, made the following statement relative to the proposed department:

"I am an earnest advocate of systematic exercises for women whether it is taken in the home or in the club, as I consider it an essential for health. There are few women who take regular exercise without some incentive, hence the value of the gymnasium class as a department of the club. Many do not care for the strenuous exercise of the gymnasium and for those the physical expression or aesthetic dancing classes, in which the exercise consists of movements of the body rhythmically to music, is beneficial. We spend so much of our time out of doors in this Southern country that there is not the great necessity for these forms of exercises as in the life of the Northern woman.

If sufficient interest is manifested by the members of the Woman's Club we contemplate establishing a class in physical culture before the new year.

Varied reasons are given by leading local suffragists for the defeat of suffrage in New Jersey. All agree however, that no criticism is due the management of the campaign committee and that the election merely an interruption of the work of the men and women of the state who will continue their efforts in the cause. Dr. Rosa Goodrich Bolde, who was in charge of the Tucson headquarters during the Arizona campaign and since its close has been an active worker and officer in the Phoenix Civic League recently returned from New Jersey. "The scum of Europe is refusing to franchise free born American women" said Dr. Bolde indignantly. "The men and women of the state put up a gallant fight but unfortunately they did not have to deal with Americans. In the first place New Jersey is a factory state and worked by the cheapest European labor and these were the people who denied our women their rights. I was in New Jersey a few weeks ago and I knew the amendment would not pass. The state is way behind in the matter of education, legislation and civilization."

The efforts of the "underlying element" are regarded by Mrs. Mattie Williams, secretary of the Civic League, as the cause of defeat of political equality in New Jersey.

"The liquor interests and the corporations defeated the amendment," she declared.

The Congressional Union has been the real draw back to the movement according to Miss Jean Telford, noted suffrage worker.

"The bad tactics of the Congressional Union has hurt the suffrage cause," she stated yesterday. "Militant methods are not tolerated in this country and the Union savoring militancy. While I do not believe New (Continued on Page Ten)

OFFERING A NEW pattern to the public a manufacturer has much to consider, as to existing conditions, as well as to some expectancy of the future.

William H. Durgin, the founder of this company, confined his efforts to smithing in sterling only, and the William H. Durgin Company has continued along that line, striving particularly to excel in the design, quality and character of its wares.

Believing this to be the opportune time, the Chatham pattern has been chosen to win fresh laurels, and the William H. Durgin Company takes a natural pride in this announcement.

Again do we turn to Virginia for inspiration, for does not Chatham on the Rappahannock offer many notable claims to our attention, at once interesting and distinctive.

Boiled two and one-half centuries ago, by William Fitzhugh, the manor "house seen became distinguished in the social life of the times—later witnessed the courtship and honeymoon of Washington, and again later, the marriage of the idol of the Confederacy, Robert E. Lee and Mary Fitzhugh.

Chatham, as the second home of Washington, has been endeared to our country, and stands today notable among the finest types of Colonial mansions.

Love, war and peace are indelibly associated with historic Chatham.

Particular attention is directed to the unique structural features of this new pattern. The back of the handle has a raised center and concaved sides, which combined with the tip extending over the back of the bowl and lines, gives it unusual strength and durability. The Chatham, in sterling only, is complete in all the plain and fancy pieces.

This new and very attractive pattern is carried in stock by Hego & Co., Jewelers and Opticians.
